Entrain Amidst God-Speeds of Scores of Their Own Race Who Participate in Parade Featured by Colored Veterans in Places of Honor.

Cool, clear weather sent the colored rookies marching away to war this morning. The weather was ideal as it has been in the case of the departure of every contingent.

Six colored citizens announced by board 1 July 8, everyone of them then called, responded this morning and were entrained at the West Shore station leaving there on the 9:05 o'clock train for Camp Dix.

Here are the men who have the honor of being the first exclusive contingent sent from Kingston in this war of Americans of African descent. They were fine looking men. Marching in splendid order, each, with the broad smile on his face that is characteristic of his race:

James B. Fitzgerald, 47 Van Buren street.

Clarence S. G. Clemons, 56 Grand street.

George Hannibal, 248 Clinton avenue.

James DeWitt, 25 Main street.

Raymond Nelson, R. F. D. 1.

Ira Hasbrouck, Converse street.

Marching at the head of this small body was a colored G. A. R. man, the veteran of the civil war, representing the men of color who came out of slavery more than fifty years ago to fight for "Uncle Abe." The age of this veteran is unknown. Once a slave and for the past fifty years a free man, he was worthy of the place of honor escorting the descendants of his color to fight in the modern war of liberation for the world.

Promptly at the second tap of five on the fire bell the parade, 300 strong swung into the head of Broadway and pursued the well beaten track that more than six hundred of Kingston's contribution to the man power of the nation have trod in the past twelve months.

There were all of the organizations, every band of marchers, representatives of all the societies and the business and professional men of Kingston who had marched once and again who now cheerfully turned out to pay their respects to these six young colored men.

Indeed, they were even more greatly honored with the attendance of the largest section of the women's ambulance corps that has yet joined the parade that send our men to war. Fourteen cars carrying the old and the young were driven by members of the corps, in their native uniform. There were twenty-four of them.

Chief of Police Wood with a platoon of his men escorted the column, that was under the command of Grand Marshal D. G. Atkins, accompanied by his staff.

Led by the Bailey Fife and Drum Corps marched Co. M. N. Y. Guard, commanded by Captain Everett Fowler. Then came the Vets, the Sons of the Vets, and the ladies' auxiliary of that organization. The presence of the Red Cross women and the nurses in their uniforms gave color and character to the parade.

Every body of marchers in the three divisions was as largely filled up in numbers as in the case of the departure of the largest of contingents.

The newest feature of the parade was the marching of a hundred or more relatives and fellow citizens of color to see these men off, as they did, with tears and yet laughter.

There were the parsons of their churches and a large delegation of their congregations, the colored Old Fellows who turned out for the first time, marching under a large American flag borne proudly in the van by a venerable elder.

Preceding the conscripts came the women and children, their mothers, wives and sisters. There were a score or more, all of whom bore traces of pride rather than grief on their countenances for they could well appreciate that the people of their race had come into their own in this land of the free and they doubtless felt great pride in the attention that the city's best citizens both humble and exalted, were giving to their boys, the marching of women with whom marching is not the easiest of their tasks and at the head of it all the mayor of the city and the city officials.

It was at the parting with their boys in the plaza at the station when the boys boarded the train to the music of the Colonial Band that some of these women and children gave way to their feelings. But their boys, with parting kisses still smiled and promised them they would be back as soon as the Huns were licked good and plenty then stepped jauntily aboard with their kits and the plentifulness of fruits and tobacco that were showered on them.

MANSION HOUSE SOLD AGAIN

To be Remodelled and Converted Into an Up-to-Date Commercial and Factory Building by New York Man

The old and historic Mansion House, Broadway, Rondout, has again changed owners, having been sold by Broker Hyman Leventhal, of Leventhal Brothers, of this city, to S. Shapiro, of Hastings-on-the-Hudson. The deal was consummated Wednesday at the offices of the United States Title Company, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mr. Shapiro, the purchaser, is a well known manufacturer of embroidery, operating two factories in New York city and he was looking for another factory location when Mr. Leventhal got him interested in the Mansion House property, and after five days' negotiations completed the sale, which means much to this city as Mr. Shapiro states he will make great improvements to the old landmark and locate factories here.

While his plans are not yet completed Mr. Shapiro stated to a Freeman reporter that he intends to completely remodel the building and make it a modern commercial building, with stores on ground floor, offices on the second floor, and occupy the balance of the building for factory purposes with all modern conveniences, including elevators, etc.

Mr. Shapiro stated that he has already leased the two upper floors of the building to a New York manufacturing concern, who has a large government contract for the manufacture of overcoats and uniforms, and that this firm will employ four or five hundred help and will start business as soon as he can get the building ready for their occupancy. Mr. Shapiro will also use some of the building for his own manufacturing business. He was in the city today making arrangements to start work on the alterations to the building, which he expects will cost over $15,000.

General Pershing in Cable to Roosevelt Intimates that Son May Have Landed Behind German Lines.

New York, July 18.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt today received a cablegram from General John J. Pershing, which caused the former president to hold out some hope that his son, Lieut. Quentin Roosevelt, might yet be safe.

General Pershing's cable to the colonel follows: "Regret very much to inform you that your son, Lieut. Quentin Roosevelt, is reported as missing. On July 14 with a patrol of twelve planes he left on a mission of protecting a photographic section. Seven enemy planes were sighted and attacked, after which the enemy planes retired and our planes broke off the combat and returned to their base. Lieut. Roosevelt did not return. LORENZ' SPEECH AT ROTARY DINNER

In Analytical Discussion Of Teuton Character He Demonstrates That The Only Argument Suitable Is a Club.

E. S. Lorenz, a music publisher of Dayton, Ohio, answered the question, "What is the Matter With Germany?" before the Rotary Club at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday evening in a most convincing and enlightening manner. He spoke first of the honest, thrifty, respectable, law-abiding, easily assimilated Germans in America, who came here from the land of universities to which we went to obtain the finishing touches in science and theology; the land of music and song, the land of high ideals and high intellectual and moral values. That, he said, has been our idea of Germans and of Germany. And we have been right—with emphasis on the have been. But there has come an explosion and out of the people and the land of our ideals has sprung forth a demon and we find a people so debauched that we feel it a disgrace to be recognized as a German. The German people were—with emphasis on the were—all that you thought them 50 years ago, except for the latent possibilities that have been exploited and developed for purposes of their own by the governing classes. What were these possibilities and how were they developed?

The typical German is self-conscious—everything is judged in relation to self. The English are just as conceited although they do not strut and boast so much, but they are not so self-conscious. A German will do a good job because he will say to himself: "I must do this right so that it will do me great credit." An Englishman will say: "I must do this right because it is the proper thing to do." This illustrates the difference in thought and motive.

With all his self-consciousness the German for generations felt his inferiority and took the attitude of subordination. Many of the Germans were serfs. Inferiority realized made them susceptible to the influence of those above.

The German is serious, he is not a joker, he has no sense of humor, no sense of proportion. German professors have written books to prove that Adam was a German, that Jesus Christ was a German, and have taken themselves and been taken seriously.

The German is conscientious, seeking to justify every act by the standard of a distant ideal.

Leon said they would commit atrocity and then prove that it was right. That was more than a hundred years ago.

There is a coarseness of fibre in the typical German. He is stupid and deeply like the typical Englishman. Do any of you resent that about the Englishman? I will answer you with one word—Dardanelles.

The German efficiency does not rest on the bright minds of the masses. We rarely see a tactful German. They blunder in all things not sheerly material. They cannot understand the minds of others and they judge all others from their own material views. They understand the argument of a club only. For instance, they reasoned that England would not dare enter the war because if she did the United States would at once seize Canada.

This coarseness manifests itself among the upper classes in a grossness in living. The speaker told of being invited to attend a meeting of a literary club composed of theological students in a German university, in the biggest saloon in the city, at which prodigious quantities of beer were consumed, everybody got very drunk and the performance was kept until 4 o'clock Sunday morning and the theological students, the budding clergymen, attended church in a huddled, bungled up condition. The number of illegitimate births in university and garrison towns was also commented on as showing the demoralizing influence of the so-called better classes. This brutalizing and bestializing is on the part of the men who lead and govern, those to whom the peoples look up.

The rise of the Hohenzollern family and the rapine, outrage and looting by the German Knights were outlined by the speaker in order to show that the German aristocracy was an aristocracy that had its origin in ruthlessness and arrogance, regarding war and conquest as a great work for men. The aristocrat is arrogant toward his inferiors but cringes to his superiors. In the universities the Junkers set the pace and are imitated by the sons of their rich.

With all this natural and acquired attitude of the leaders, the governing classes, the problem was how to reach and train the people for war. The process began 40 years ago in the schools. The kindergarten pupils were taught songs of glory of the German people and were taught to look on all foreigners as inferiors and sang songs of hate. In the grammar schools children were taught that the Germans were a super-people, that they had a call from God to control the world, that Germany was the successor of the Holy Roman Empire and had a right to conquer the world. In the universities students were taught that Germany was a super-race and that other nations had no rights to need consider. For instance, a professor of theology, lecturing on missions, said that Brazil was populated by the lost tribes of Germany and was again to be made part of the German empire and the United States would interfere at its peril. There is no freedom of speech for the faculty of a university in matters even remotely touching politics.

FRANCO-AMERICANS CAPTURE THOUSANDS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, July 18.—(4:40 p. m.)

The French and American forces that launched a counter offensive between the Aisne and the Marne rivers this morning, had advanced from three to four miles, capturing thousands of prisoners, and twenty guns up to early this afternoon, the International News Service learns.

GERMANS MAY BE TRAPPED ON MARNE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, July 18.—The Germans on the southern bank of the Marne are faced with a disaster similar to the one that overtook the Austrians in the collapse of their offensive on the Piave. Allied aviators are becoming increasingly active and are bombing the German bridges on the Marne as rapidly as they are built. The Germans are reported to be withdrawing their reserves for action elsewhere.

The Germans that crossed the Marne in the sector held by all American forces, were all driven to the northern bank by counter attacks.

To the east of the Americans, where a mixed French and American force is fighting, the Germans are still south of the stream.

ALLIES BEGIN OFFENSIVE ON THIRTY MILE FRONT

As a Whole Fighting Has Slowed Down In German Drive—Fierce Local Fighting—Allied Drive Gains Ground.

Turning upon their enemies on the fourth day of the German offensive, the Allies began a counter drive this morning over a front of more than thirty miles along the western flank of the Aisne-Marne salient.

The zone of attacks extended from Fontenoy sur Aisne, immediately west of Soissons on the northern bank of the Aisne river, to the region of Belleau Wood, just northwest of Chateau Thierry.

It was assumed from the official report issued by the French war office that Americans were taking part in the assaults, as they held Belleau Wood and the terrain to the north of the wood.

It was a remarkable fact that the Franco-American forces gained practically as much ground in a few hours fighting as the Germans did in the first day of their grand offensive on Monday, despite the fact that the Germans had been preparing for many weeks and had the advantage of great masses of artillery for preliminary cannonading and overclouding concentrations of picked troops.

The extent to which General Foch planned to press the counter blow could not be foretold from the official communique issued by the French war office at noon.

It was supposed that the object of the counter offensive was to relieve German pressure against Rheims, and to divert the Germans' attention from the Marne. There has been a number of violent local actions in the Champagne front but generally speaking the fighting in the latest German drive has slowed down.

There have been no big changes in the battle lines.

There was sharp local action southwest of Nanteuil La Forse (between the Marne and Rheims) and south of the Marne river in the Montois-Chene-Laine sector.

The Germans renewed their efforts to fight their way into the wooded Rheims mountain (south of the city) but were repulsed in the struggle around Nanteuil La Forse.

South of the Marne the Germans have been thrown back at the point where their lines approached nearest to Epernay, one of the two main local objectives of the Germans in their present offensive.

Montoisin (only about six miles from Epernay) has been retaken by the French and the Germans were thrown back from nearby heights overlooking the Marne river, according to unofficial reports. The village of Chene-La-Reine has also been wrested from the Germans, according to an unofficial dispatch.

The counter measures taken by the Allies against the Germans in the present offensive are the biggest and most effective of any taken in any of the previous four German drives this year. The Germans lost the initiative almost as soon as they got their present drive under way and never regained it.

Paris is just as safe today as it was before the hosts of Ludendorff were sent forward on Monday morning.

E. S. Lorenz, a music publisher of Dayton, Ohio, answered the question,
"What is the Matter With Germany?"
before the Rotary Club at the Y. M.
C. A. Wednesday evening in a most convincing and enlightening manner. He spoke first of the honest, thrifty, respectable, law-abiding, easily assimilated Germans in America,
who came here from the land of universities to which we went to obtain the finishing touches in science and theology; the land of music and song,
the land of high ideals and high intellectual and moral values. That, he said, has been our idea of Germans and of Germany. And we have been right—with emphasis on the have been. But there has come an explosion and out of the people and the land of our ideals has sprung forth a demon and we find a people
so debauched that we feel it a disgrace to be recognized as a German.
The German people were—with emphasis on the were—all that you thought them 50 years ago, except for the latent possibilities that have been exploited and developed for purposes
of their own by the governing classes.
What were these possibilities and how were they developed?

The typical German is self-conscious—everything is judged in relation to self. The English are just as conceited although they do not strut
and boast so much, but they are not so self-conscious. A German will do a good job because he will say to himself, "I must do this right so that it will do me great credit." An Englishman will say, "I must do this right because it is the proper thing to do." This illustrates the difference in thought and motive.

With all his self-consciousness the German for generations felt his inferiority and took the attitude of subordination. Many of the Germans were serfs. Inferiority realized made them susceptible to the influence of those above.
The German is serious, he is not a joker, he has no sense of humor, no sense of proportion. German professors have written books to prove that Adam was a German, that Jesus Christ was a German, and have taken themselves and been taken seriously.
The German is conscientious, seeking to justify every act by the standard of a distorted conscience. Napoleon said they would commit any atrocities and then prove that it was right. That was more than a hundred years.

There is a coarseness of fibre in the typical German. He is stupid and beefy like the typical Englishman.
Do any of you resent that about the Englishman? I will answer you with one word—Dardanelles.

The German efficiency does not rest
on the bright minds of the masses.
We rarely see a tactful German. They blunder in all things not sheerly matterial. They cannot understand the minds of others and they judge all others from their own material views.
They understand the argument of a club only. For instance, they reasoned that England would not dare enter the war because if she did the United States would at once seize Canada.

This coarseness manifests itself
among the upper classes in a gross-ness in living. The speaker told of being invited to attend a meeting of a literary club composed of theological students in a German university, in the biggest saloon in the city, at which prodigious quantities of beer were consumed, everybody got very drunk and the performance was kept until 4 o'clock Sunday morning and the theological students, the budding clergymen, attended church in a badly bungled up condition. The number of illegitimate births in universities and garrison towns were also commented on as showing the demoralizing influences of the so-called better classes. This brutalizing and bestializing is on the part of the men who lead and govern, those to who the peoples look up.
The rise of the Hohenzollern family and the rapine, outrage and loot-ing by the German Knights were outlined by the speaker in order to show that the German aristocracy was an aristocracy that had its origin in ruthlessness and arrogance,
regarding war and conquest as inferior to work for men. The aristocrat is arrogant toward his inferiors but cringes to his superiors. In the universities the Junkers set the pace
and are imitated by the sons of the rich.

With all this natural and acquired stupidity, the leaders, the governing classes, the problem was how to reach and train the people for war.
The process began 40 years ago in the schools. The kindergarten pupils were taught songs of glory of the German people and were taught to look on all foreigners as inferi-ors and sang songs of hate. In the grammar schools children were taught that the Germans were a super-people, that they had a call from God to control the world, that Germany was the successor of the Holy Roman Empire and had a right to conquer the world. In the universities students were taught that Germany was a super-nation and that other nations had no rights it need consider. For instance, a professor of theology, lecturing on missions, said that Brazil was populated by the lost tribes of Germany and was again to be made part of the German empire and the United States would interfere at its peril.
There is no freedom of speech for the faculty of a university in matters even remotely touching politics.

FRANCO-AMERICANS CAPTURE THOUSANDS

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, July 18.—(4:40 p. m.)

—The French and American forces that launched a counter offensive between the Aisne and the Marne rivers this morning, had advanced from three to four miles, capturing thousands of prisoners, and twenty guns up to early this afternoon, the International News Service learns.

The attacks were delivered
against the Germans over a front

GERMANS MAY BE TRAPPED ON MARNE

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, July 18.—The Germans on the southern bank of the Marne are faced with a disaster similar to the one that overtook the Austrians in the collapse of their offensive on the plateau. Allied aviators are becoming increasingly active and are bombing
the German bridges on the Marne as rapidly as they are built. The Germans are reported to be withdrawing their reserves for action elsewhere.

The Germans that crossed the Marne in the sector held by all American forces, were all driven to the northern bank by counter attacks.

To the east of the Americans,
where a mixed French and American forces is fighting, the Germans are still south of the stream.

KNAUST GUILTY AND PAROLED

And Not Dismissed As Stated In Some Quarters, Says Patriotic Resident of Malden—Knaust Was Paroled.

Editor of The Freeman, Sir:—Pray permit me to correct an error calculated to please only the Kaiser and disloyal admirers in our midst. A German of West Camp named Agudias Knaust was recently arrested by State Troopers, locked up over night and on the following morning brought before the department of justice in Albany. The charge against him was that he had freely and offensively ventilated opinions calculated to leave the impression on American minds that this country was not good enough for him and that the flag of the fatherland sounded more sympathetically than the Stars and Stripes.

Our local paper reported the case erroneously, by stating that the charge was dismissed.

On the contrary, the charge was abundantly sustained; the prisoner was found guilty; he was severely reprimanded and paroled in the custody of his son, who will discover that a repetition of the same offense will produce a sentence nearer to Prussian ideas of justice.

He was allowed to go home in charge of his son on account of his eighty years—a plea that would have sounded like sickly sentimentality to the ears of those who murdered Edith Cavell—a nurse whose only crime was an act of womanly mercy.

POULTNEY BIGELOW, District Chairman War Savings Stamps Committee, Malden-on-Hudson, July 17, 1918.

Squash Vine Borer.

The war gardener should watch the squash and pumpkin vines for the borers, says the state college of agriculture. On a hot day, when the tips of the vines and leaves begin to wilt, look carefully at the base of the vines for this pest. It can usually be located inside the stem within the first few joints. A slit in the stem with a sharp knife will permit you to take the borer out. The wound will quickly heal if covered with soil. Where the plant has commenced to wilt and the borer injury has become serious near the base of the stem, the vine may often be made to root at joints further along on the vine by covering it with soil.

UNUSUALLY STRONG ADVERTISEMENTS

Through the courtesy of S. Cohen's Sons, the uptown men's furnishers, we print the following letter received by them from a famous clothing manufacturer:

Chicago, July 13, 1918.
S. Cohen's Sons, Kingston, New York.

Gentlemen:—We received a copy of the Kingston Daily Freeman for June 27 and were very much attracted by your advertisement.
You used plenty of space and the type is of good size, easily read and well set up. This gives you a great deal of attention getting value. It is one of the many good things that you have been doing this season. We want to say right now that your advertising is unusually strong and feel pretty sure that you are going to do more of it this season because the opportunities were never better.

Yours truly,

A rainy day job: Slick up the barns.

Daniel Webster said: "Cultivation of the earth is the most important labor of man." National strength lies very near the soil.

Don't think an office desk is an expensive luxury for the farm. Farming is a business and the farmer needs the same helps as any other business man.

Success in farming, as in everything else, is just ordinary failure turned forward. Success is a positive piece of business. There is nothing negative about it.

Buy your fertilizer, if you can, in 200-pound sacks instead of the 100-pound size. It is estimated that twenty-one million yards of burlap, which is scarce and expensive now, could be saved if all dealers would use the larger sacks.

Are you planning to take good care of your root crops this fall. Be sure you have adequate storage facilities. "E. B. 22" and your name and address on a postcard sent to the State College of Agriculture at Ithaca will bring you a bulletin on "Construction and Management of Root Storage Cellars."

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 18, 1918

What is the matter with Germany? The Rotarians and their guests who heard E. S. Lorenz of Dayton, Ohio, answer that question at the meeting and banquet in the Y. M. C. A. dining room Wednesday evening understand the matter much better than they ever did before or ever hoped to. That 3,000 persons could not have heard Mr. Lorenz instead of less than 200 is unfortunate. For nearly two hours Mr. Lorenz talked and not a man left the room or showed the slightest sign of impatience. Without epithet or abuse with an appeal to reason rather than to passion or prejudice, with characteristic German thoroughness, the speaker's German mind Americanized by a human and humane heart and conscience enabled him to give an insight into the German character that was thorough, logical and comprehensive. The son of a German-born dissenting clergyman who spent most of his life in America but was for some years in Germany as a missionary of his sect educated in a New England college and a German university spending much time in Germany and appreciating and admiring everything that is fine in the past of Germany, Mr. Lorenz is educated but not pedantic and most admirably fitted to translate into American thought and words the trend of German thought and custom and to show clearly how it has come about that the whole German people have gone mad with egotism and lust for conquest why they want to but must not be permitted to rule the world. The abstract of his address, printed in another column should be read and studied. It will make many things clear.

The old project of a tunnel under the English Channel seems to have passed beyond the stage of probability to that of practical certainty. France having added its endorsement to that of England. At a recent meeting of the International Parliamentary Conference at London the French and Italian delegates supported the scheme and the conference voted unanimously in favor of the earliest possible completion of the work. According to the experts who have investigated the proposed tunnel is neither a visionary project nor one that presents many serious difficulties. The depth of the Channel nowhere exceeds 150 feet and it is proposed to tunnel only 100 feet below the bottom. A cover of such thickness over underground passage being regarded as sufficient. Power houses 10 miles inland are proposed as well as a 'water lock' that could flood a mile of the tunnel at any time within a few minutes if emergency required.

Such a tunnel would have been invaluable during the present war as a means of transporting troops of saving many lives and of reducing the suffering of the transported wounded and sick. It would in a large measure have brought immunity from the perils of mines as well as of submarines. Such a new route between England and the Continent would be scarcely less valuable during times of peace not only saving the traveling public from the very often rough surface passage but facilitating trade. The building of this link between the two nations now separated by rough water, it has been suggested in the House of Commons would be an admirable way of celebrating the victory of the Allied armies.

Ulster county colored men have a high mark to aim at in their army life. First, they are from Ulster county, which sent four regiments to fight for liberty in the Revolutionary War and more than three regiments in the Civil War and the reputation of the old county must be kept up. Second, because as colored men they have a chance to show those who hold race prejudice what they really are. From its scanty colored population Ulster county had colored men enough to form and maintain for many years after the war a Grand Army Post of colored men in this city. And then, as conscripts, they have the chance that all the conscripts have to change that word from an epithet to a badge of honor. Most thinking men firmly believe that the man who does not want to fight just for the love of it, but who fights willingly because it is his duty, is the man who is the real hero and who will win the war but the conscripts cannot show and prove this too strongly. The record of these men will be the best argument against any slighting remarks made by the thoughtless or vicious.

Very Queer

"Germany treats the Ukraine," said Dr. Warfield Longcope, dean of Columbia Medical School "as the Nola Chucky boysmen treated the officers."

Germany guaranteeing the Ukraine's independence and then putting her unmercifully, is like the vestryman who said:

A. E. F. Paper in France Strong For Elsie Janis

These are picturesque extracts from The Stars and Stripes the official newspaper of the American Expeditionary Forces published in France by and for the soldiers of the A. E. F.

To an army which has these many months listened perforce to lectures on "Why We Are At War," "The Meaning of Caraway Seeds in Argentina," "Why We Are At War," and "Why We Are At War," to an army that has been overwhelmingly informed and otherwise edified Elsie Janis comes as a distinct relief. She is an oasis of color and vivacity in a dreary desert of frock-coated and white-tied lecturers who have been visited upon us. There, for we are for her.

We're all doubthobs. As we read the definition in the dictionary known as "General Usage," a doubthob is an American soldier—an American soldier. Time was when the name applied only to enlisted infantrymen. Time was when there was suggestion of cowardly desertion in it. But with the original doubthobs in the very vanguard of the A. E. F. the name has taken on a new accent of respect. Infantrymen, artillerymen, medical department boys and signal corps sharpshooters and men alike, we are all called doubthobs. Our cartoonist is a doubthob. So is General Pershing. So are we all of us.

Everybody wants to economize

ECONOMY means more than saving money; it means "management."

Now in the matter of clothes, the way to economize is to spend your money for the sort of clothes that save themselves. That's why we advise our customers to buy

Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothes

The economy is in the clothes, not in the price. We don't offer these as low-priced clothes. You'll have no difficulty in finding suits and overcoats that are lower priced than these.

But you won't find any that are less expensive; because all-wool fabrics and fine tailoring do wear better than cheap stuff; if you figure cost by the month, for example, you'll see how low-priced these clothes are.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 18, 1918.

What is the matter with Germany? The Rotarians and their guests who heard E. S. Lorenz of Dayton, Ohio, answer that question at the meeting and banquet in the Y. M. C. A. dining room Wednesday evening understand the matter much better than they ever did before or ever hoped to. That 3,000 persons could not have heard Mr. Lorenz instead of less than 200 is unfortunate. For nearly two hours Mr. Lorenz talked and not a man left the room or showed the slightest sign of impatience. Without epithet or abuse, with an appeal to reason rather than to passion or prejudice, with characteristic German thoroughness, the speaker's German mind, Americanized by a human and humane heart and conscience, enabled him to give an insight into the German character that was thorough, logical and comprehensive. The son of a German-born dissenting clergyman who spent most of his life in America but was for some years in Germany as a missionary of his sect, educated in a New England college and a German university, spending much time in Germany and appreciating and admiring everything that is fine in the past of Germany, Mr. Lorenz is educated but not pedantic and most admirably fitted to translate into American thought and words the trend of German thought and custom and to show clearly how it has come about that the whole German people have gone mad with egotism and lust for conquest, why they want to but must not be permitted to rule the world. The abstract of his address, printed in another column, should be read and studied. It will make many things clear.

TO BUILD CHANNEL TUNNEL.

The old project of a tunnel under the English Channel seems to have passed beyond the stage of probability to that of practical certainty. France having added its indorsement to that of England. At a recent meeting of the International Parliamentary Conference at London the French and Italian delegates supported the scheme and the conference voted unanimously in favor of the earliest possible completion of the work. According to the experts who have investigated, the proposed tunnel is neither a visionary project nor one that presents many serious difficulties. The depth of the Channel nowhere exceeds 180 feet and it is proposed to tunnel only 100 feet below the bottom, a cover of such thickness over underground passage being regarded as sufficient. Power houses 10 miles inland are proposed as well as a "water lock" that could flood a mile of the tunnel at any time within a few minutes if emergency required.

Such a tunnel would have been invaluable during the present war as a means of transporting troops, of saving many lives and of reducing the suffering of the transported wounded and sick. It would in a large measure have brought immunity from the peril of mines as well as of submarines. Such a new route between England and the Continent would be scarcely less valuable during times of peace, not only saving the traveling public from the very often rough surface passage but facilitating trade. The building of this link between the two nations now separated by rough water, it has been suggested in the House of Commons, would be an admirable way of celebrating the victory of the Allied armies.

Ulster county colored men have a high mark to aim at in their army life. First, they are from Ulster county, which sent four regiments to fight for liberty in the Revolutionary War and more than three regiments in the Civil War, and the reputation of the old county must be kept up. Second, because as colored men they have a chance to show those who hold race prejudice what they really are. From its scanty colored population Ulster county had colored men enough to form and maintain for many years after the war a Grand Army Post of colored men in this city. And then, as conscripts, they have the chance that all the conscripts have to change that word from an epithet to a badge of honor. Most thinking men firmly believe that the man who does not want to fight just for the love of it, but who fights willingly because it is his duty, is the man who is the real hero and who will win the war but the conscripts cannot show and prove this too strongly. The record of these men will be the best argument against any slighting remarks made by the thoughtless or vicious.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Has your husband been exempted at camp?" "No, but he's been vaccinated."—Baltimore American.

"About this food conservation, it certainly behooves us to go busy." "You mean it behooves us."—Life.

"De man dat talks too much," said Uncle Eben, "ain't satisfied wif wastin' his own time. He wants to stop work foh as large an audience as possible."—Washington Star.

Mrs. Kowler—"So your nephew talks of going west. Does he seem restive of home?" Mrs. Blunderby—"Yes, he's awful restive. In fact, he's done nothing but rest since he graduated from college."—Boston Transcript.

"So you and Nextdoor are not on speaking terms?" "We are not." "What's the trouble?" "Why, he sent me a box of axle grease and advised me to use it on my lawn mower." "Well?" "Well, I sent it back and told him to use it on his daughter's voice."—Boston Transcript.

Dodging the Issue.

Mrs. Overwater had a deadly gleam in her eyes as she entered her butcher's and said in a withering voice: "Mr. Aichboon how do you account for the fact that there was a piece of rubber tire in the sausage I bought here yesterday?"

"Ah, my dear madam," responded the butcher, rising to the occasion, "that just serves as an illustration of how the motorcar is replacing the horse everywhere nowadays."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Very Queer.

"Germany treats the Ukraine," said Dr. Warfield Longcope, dean of Columbia Medical School, "as the Nola Chucky vestrymen treated the offertory."

"Germany, guaranteeing the Ukraine's independence and then pilfering her unmercifully, is like the vestryman who said:

"Three of our church collectors had to resign for helping themselves out of the collection plate; so then we got a new man—a one-armed chap—but he left last week. Said he couldn't make it pay."—Exchange.

Not Her Fault.

Sarah was rather backward in her studies. One day she came home and announced that she stood at the foot of the class.

"Why Sarah, I'm ashamed of you," exclaimed her mother. "Why don't you study harder?"

"It isn't my fault," complained the little girl. "This little girl who has always been at the foot has left school."

His Revenge.

Jimmy wanted his tooth after it had been pulled, so the dentist wrapped it up in paper and gave it to him.

"But what are you going to do with it, Jimmy?" he asked.

"I'm going to take it home, cram it full of sugar, and watch it ache."—Exchange.

What Counts.

It don't make much difference to the army whether you wuz a bartender or a writer of blank verse in civilian life.

The question is: "Did you make good at it?"—Kelly Field Eagle.

ALL DOUGHBOYS.

A. E. F. Paper in France Strong For Elsie Janis.

These are picturesque extracts from The Stars and Stripes, the official newspaper of the American Expeditionary Forces published in France by and for the soldiers of the A. E. F.:

To an army which has these many months listened perforce to lectures on "Why We Are At War," "The Mining of Caraway Seeds in Argentina," "Why We Are At War," and "Why We Are At War," to an army that has been overwhelmingly informed and otherwise edified, Elsie Janis comes as a distinct relief. She is an oasis of color and vivacity in a dreary desert of frock-coated and white-tied lecturers who have been visited upon us. Therefore we are for her!

We're all doughboys. As we read the definition in the dictionary known as "General Usage," a doughboy is an American soldier—any American soldier. Time was when the name applied only to enlisted infantrymen. Time was when there was suggestion of good-natured derision in it. But with the original doughboys in the very vanguard of the A. E. F. the name has taken on a new accent of respect. Infantrymen, artillerymen, medical department boys and signal corps sharps, officers and men alike, we are all called doughboys. Our cartoonist is a doughboy. So is General Pershing. So are we all of us.

MISS BEVERIDGE FROM KINGSTON

Alleged German Propagandist Who Attended No. 8 School Has Had Varied Career.

Ray Beveridge, whose name has been printed and picture published in newspapers within the last few days as one of the Hun propagandists, employed by representatives of the German government to write and spread sentiment in the United States in favor of the Germans before this country entered into the war, is remembered by a number of people of Kingston. She, with her sister, Kuehne Beveridge, went to No. 8 school on Franklin street when girls. They are daughters of the late William Rutzler, who resided with his wife and daughters on Fair street, near Henry street. One of the daughters who became the mother of Kuehne and Ray, married a son of Governor Beveridge of Illinois. Mr. Rutzler, their father, was about fifty years ago, owner of Rutzler's hotel on Main street, Poughkeepsie. Kuehne is known throughout the United States and Europe as a famous sculptress and her name has frequently appeared in print. Ray has been an actress, was a Red Cross worker in Berlin, and is supposed to be known as the Baroness de Weide. Deputy State Attorney General Alfred L. Becker is checking up her career for the federal government in connection with the spending of $100,000 for the spreading of German propaganda in the United States.

The KITCHEN CABINET

And see how everywhere Love, comfort, strength, helps and saves us all. What opportunities of good befall To make life sweet and fair.

GOOD THINGS FOR EVERYBODY.

When you want a new combination try the following:

Holland Salad.—Mix half a pound of bologna sausage cut very thin with a pint of cold boiled potatoes, also thinly sliced, one medium sized onion finely shredded, six sardines freed from skin and bones; then cut in bits two hard cooked eggs sliced. Pour over three parts of oil and one of vinegar, a teaspoonful of horseradish, and a tablespoonful of tomato catsup; salt and red pepper to taste. Serve on lettuce.

Dainty Croquettes.—Mix a cupful of boiled calf's liver, finely chopped with a half cupful of bacon, also finely chopped and cooked crisp and brown, add salt and pepper, form into balls, dip in egg and crumbs and fry in hot fat.

Fish Souffle.—Force cooked fish of any kind through a sieve—there should be a quarter of a cupful. Cook a fourth of a cupful of bread crumbs with a third of a cupful of milk five minutes, add the fish and half a tablespoonful of butter, salt and paprika to taste. Beat the white of a small egg and add to the mixture. Turn into a buttered mold and bake in hot water until firm. Serve with a white or any desired sauce. This amount makes a small dish sufficient for two, it can be doubled for a larger family.

Marmalade Pudding.—Mix a cupful of barley flour with the same amount of stale bread crumbs and a cupful of sweet cooked fine; add one beaten egg, a half teaspoonful of salt and a cupful of marmalade. Turn into a buttered bowl, tie up in a cloth and steam three hours. Serve with a hard sauce.

A thick slice of tomato covered with chopped onion and cucumber and served with French dressing is both a good and a pretty salad.

Hash may be made into balls or cakes, rolled in crumbs and browned making a most tasty dish with little work.

A Simple Set of Coat and Cap.

2346—Elderdown, bedford cord, cashmere, serge, poplin, velvet, corduroy, faille, bengaline, taffeta and cheviot may be used for the coat, and the cap may be of the same material, or of silk, batiste, lawn or mull. Testing Pleurisy With Coins.

A novel method of diagnosing pleurisy is described by P. Lereboullet in the Paris Medical. The examiner applies his ear to the patient's chest, closing his other ear, while coins are clicked on the coles coming through a healthy, normally aerated lung seems distant and dull, while through an affected lung, through solid or homogenous tissue a clear, silvery, metallic ring is heard.

MISS BEVERIDGE FROM KINGSTON

Alleged German Propagandist Who Attended No. 8 School Has Had Varied Career.

Ray Beveridge, whose name has been printed and picture published in newspapers within the last few days as one of the Hun propagandists, employed by representatives of the German government to write and spread sentiment in the United States in favor of the Germans before this country entered into the war, is remembered by a number of people of Kingston. She, with her sister, Kuehne Beveridge, went to
No. 8 school on Franklin street when girls. They are daughters of the late William Rutzler, who resided with his wife and daughters on Fair street, near Henry street. One of the daughters who became the mother of Kuehne and Ray, married a son of Governor Beveridge of Illinois. Mr. Rutzler, their father, was about fifty years ago, owner of Rutzler's hotel on Main street, Poughkeepsie. Kuehne is known throughout the United States and Europe as a famous sculptress and her name
has frequently appeared in print.
Ray has been an actress, was a Red Cross worker in Berlin and preferred to be known as the Baroness de Weilde. Deputy State Attorney General Alfred L. Becker is checking up her career for the federal government in connection with the spending of $100,000 for the spreading of German propaganda in the United States.

The KITCHEN CABINET

And see how everywhere
Love comfort, strengthens, helps
and saves us all.
What opportunities of good befall
To make life sweet and fair.

GOOD THINGS FOR EVERYBODY.

When you want a new combination
try the following:

Holland Salad.—Mix
half a pound of bologna
sausage cut very thin
with a pint of cold boiled
potatoes, also thinly sliced, one medium sized onion finely shredded, six sardines freed from skin
and bones; then cut in bits two hard cooked eggs sliced. Pour over three parts of oil and one of vinegar, a teaspoonful of horseradish, and a tablespoonful of tomato catsup; salt and red pepper to taste. Serve on lettuce.

Dainty Croquettes.—Mix a cupful of boiled calf's liver, finely chopped,
with a half cupful of bacon, also finely
chopped and cooked crisp and brown;
add salt and pepper, form into balls,
dip in egg and crumbs and fry in hot fat.

Fish Souffle.—Force cooked fish of any kind through a sieve—there should be a quarter of a cupful. Cook a fourth of a cupful of bread crumbs
with a third of a cupful of milk five minutes, add the fish and half a tablespoonful of butter, salt and paprika
to taste. Beat the white of a small egg and add to the mixture. Turn into a buttered mold and bake in hot water until firm. Serve with a white or any desired sauce. This amount makes a small dish sufficient for two, it can be doubled for a larger family.

Marmalade Pudding.—Mix a cupful of barley flour with the same amount of stale bread crumbs and a cupful of suet chopped fine; add one beaten egg,
a half teaspoonful of salt, and a cupful of marmalade. Turn into a buttered bowl, tie up in a cloth and steam
three hours. Serve with a hard sauce.
A thick slice of tomato covered with chopped onion and cucumber and served with French dressing is both a good and a pretty salad.

Hash may be made into balls or cakes, rolled in crumbs and browned making a most tasty dish with little work.

Testing Pleurisy With Coln.

A novel method of diagnosing pleur-isy is described by P. Lereboullet in the Paris Medical. The examiner applies his ear to the patient's chest,
closing his other ear, while coln are
closing his other ear, while coln are clinking at the patient's back. The sound of the coln coming through a healthy, normally aerated lung seems distant and dull, while through an affected lung, through solid or homogeneous tissue a clear, silvery, metallic ring is heard.

LORENZ' SPEECH AT ROTARY DINNER

men from the most obscure and unspotted villages into this system and stamps out all respect for the old life. They are trained in mind as well as in body. They are taught that in war everything is fair for the German, that there is no such thing as hitting below the belt. They know no such thing as fighting fair. They are taught that anything is permissible that will destroy their opponents and that this is the highest mercy, as it will shorten the war. With such arguments of the devil have the young men been filled during their military training.

The press for 40 years has been writing and publishing as it is told by the government, spreading these damnable doctrines and retraining them. By a system of ingenious finance Germany has borrowed much of its business capital and is debtor to the rest of the world. The business interests believed that if the country went to war these debts would be wiped out, as they need not pay debts to the subjects of a conquered nation.

While his father was in Germany, Mr. Lorenz said, a new church building was erected. The plans, to the minutest detail, had to be officially approved. When it came to finishing the interior of one of the rooms it was found that the door of a small closet swung the wrong way for convenience and the carpenter, at the request of the aged pastor, placed the hinges on the other side. For this both were arrested, fined and imprisoned for two days in jail, "for violation of the building law." In the minutest detail the life of the citizen was ordered by the state. This too, was in preparation for the war of conquest. It accustomed the people gradually to restraint and obedience, so that when Germany went to war the whole people were disciplined. They were ready to accept rationing and restrictions, not through loyalty, as we in America have done joyfully, but because from force of habit they had come to expect and accept without question the dictate, "verboten."

A most convincing illustration of all of the speaker's preceding remarks was his account of two visits to the little village of peasants that was the birthplace of his father. One visit was made over 20 years ago, when he found the people simple, honest, polite and pious, a very heaven on earth and everything realized that he had heard of an ideal people. The second visit was five years ago, after the Hohenzollern system of debauching the morals of the people had had full swing. He found the people coarse, rude, scolding, arrogant, brutal.

The Kaiser is a maniac, a demagogue. His father was a progressive, humane man, under the influence of his English wife, but he reigned only a few weeks. Wilhelm hated his father and mother, referring to the latter as "that English woman." His first proclamation was to the army, "I lead you on to glory," and visions of "dear tag" have been dangled before the army and the people ever since. A demagogue is on the throne and minor demons have taken possession of the populace of Germany. The war must not end until Germany is conquered, crushed. The way must not be left open for a Berlin to Baghdad railroad or for any other design of the German militarists. No Hohenzollern must be left on the throne or Ludendorff or any of his gang in power. A peace on any other terms will mean that our grandchildren must fight the war all over again and without the chance that we have for winning it. The war must not end until, as the Master drove the demons into the swine and the swine into the sea, we have driven the devils out of the German government and the German people.

President Arthur C. Connolly presided and the evening was enlivened by the usual singing by the Rotarians under the leadership of Harry P. Dodge. One of the new songs, to the tune of Tipperary, was as follows:

When the Kaiser started in to split the world in two,
He hit off seven times as much as any one could chew.
So here we are upon our way to join the folks in France
To pin the Double Cross upon the bosom of his pants.

CHORUS
It's a long way to get the Kaiser.
It's a long way, we know.
But you know we're a whole lot wiser
Than we were some time ago.
Goodbye, Kaiser Wilhelm.
You're about all in;
Don't drop dead before we meet you
Right in Berlin!

When the war is over and we reckon the expense
We'll try and "hoch der Kaiser" for as much as 50 cents;
It's more than he is worth, but we will spend it in Berlin
To fumigate the places where the royal bunch have been.

CHORUS
It's a long way, etc.

men from the most obscure and unspoiled villages into this system and stamps out all respect for the old life. They are trained in mind as well as in body. They are taught that in war everything is fair for the German, that there is no such thing as hitting below the belt. They know no such thing as fighting fair. They are taught that anything is permissible that will destroy their opponents and that this is the highest mercy, as it will shorten the war. With such arguments of the devil have the young men been filled during their military training.

The press for 40 years has been writing and publishing as it is told by the government, spreading these damnable doctrines and reiterating them. By a system of ingenious finance Germany has borrowed much of its business capital and is debtor to the rest of the world. The business interests believed that if the country went to war these debts would be wiped out, as they need not pay debts to the subjects of a conquered nation.

While his father was in Germany, Mr. Lorenz said, a new church building was erected. The plans, to the minutest detail, had to be officially approved. When it came to finishing the interior of one of the rooms it was found that the door of a small closet swung the wrong way for convenience and the carpenter, at the request of the aged pastor, placed the hinges on the other side. For this both were arrested, fined and imprisoned for two days in jail, "for violation of the building law." In the minutest detail the life of the citizen was ordered by the state. This too, was in preparation for the war of conquest. It accustomed the people gradually to restraint and obedience so that when Germany went to war the whole people were disciplined. They were ready to accept rationing and restrictions, not through loyalty, as we in America have done joyfully, but because from force of habit they had come to expect and accept without question the dictate, "verboten."

A most convincing illustration of all of the speaker's preceding remarks was his account of two visits to the little village of peasants that was the birthplace of his father. One visit was made over 30 years ago, when he found the people simple, honest, polite and pious, a very heaven on earth and everything realized that he had heard of an ideal people. The second visit was five years ago, after the Hohenzollern system of debauching the morals of the people had had full swing. He found the people coarse, rude, selfish, arrogant, brutal.

The Kaiser is a madman, a demoniac. His father was a progressive, humane man, under the influence of his English wife, but he reigned only a few weeks. Wilhelm hated his father and mother, referring to the latter as "that English woman." His first proclamation was to the army, "I lead you on to glory," and visions of "der tag" have been dangled before the army and the people ever since. A demoniac is on the throne and minor demons have taken possession of the populace of Germany. The war must not end until Germany is conquered, crushed. The way must not be left open for a Berlin to Bagdad railroad or for any other design of the German militarists. No Hohenzollern must be left on the throne or Ludendorff any of his gang in power. A peace on any other terms will mean that our grandchildren must fight the war all over again and without the chance that we have for winning it. The war must not end until the Master drove the demons into the swine and the swine into the sea; we have driven the devils out of the German government and the German people.

President Arthur C. Connelly presided and the evening was enlivened by the usual singing by the Rotarians under the leadership of Harry P. Dodge. One of the new songs, to the tune of Tipperary, was as follows:

When the Kaiser started in to split the world in two,
He bit off seven times as much as any one could chew.
So here we are upon our way to join the folks in France
To pin the Double Cross upon the bosom of his pants.

CHORUS
It's a long way to get the Kaiser,
It's a long way, we know,
But you know we're a whole lot wiser
Than we were some time ago.
Goodby, Kaiser Wilhelm,
You're about all in;
Don't drop dead before we meet you
Right in Berlin!

When the war is over and we reckon the expense
We'll try and "hoch der Kaiser" for as much as 50 cents;
It's more than he is worth, but we will spend it in Berlin
To fumigate the places where the royal bunch have been.

CHORUS
It's a long way, etc.

SUMMER FOES FOR HEALTHY BABIES

July is the first of four months of special danger to babies, and this year war conditions make the summer months particularly hazardous, according to information made public today by the Children's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor.

In July the deaths of children under two from certain easily preventable digestive diseases are usually more than double those in June. In August the deaths from diarrhea and enteritis are three times what they are in June, and the number does not fall again to the June level until November.

Conditions which lower the resistance of children make these diseases more threatening. This year the war makes it more difficult and costly to feed children properly, as they must be fed if they are to be strong and well to resist disease. At the same time the toll of death on the European battlefields make it more necessary to conserve babies' lives.

This combination of circumstances has made it imperative to increase public and private work to protect babies this summer. The national baby test has pointed the special health needs of the children in hundreds of communities and found out the children who must have special care. Communities are using various ways to meet the needs revealed by the test. One way is to advertise the value and economy of using milk, even at a high price per quart, in feeding children. As one New England mother said, milk is less expensive than doctors' bills.

The one way which has proved most effective in saving babies' lives is the employment of public health nurses. The public health nurse, both in the city and the country, can make generally known the most modern means of guarding children's health, and the Children's Bureau believes that the places which are employing such nurses to protect their children and to meet the needs revealed by the test can in that way do much to save babies and thereby to meet the war's demand that life shall be conserved.

FIRST AID CLASS.

By Red Cross at Armory Wednesday Evening.

At a meeting held in the armory Wednesday evening, July 17, and presided over by Dr. Mary Gage Day, as chairman, the second First Aid Class was organized, and the following officers elected: President, Miss Lena E. Dick; secretary, Miss Etta M. Ormerod. By a unanimous vote, Dr. Day was chosen teacher of this class, which is to hold its meetings in the armory, every Monday and Wednesday evenings at 7:30 o'clock for the following five weeks. Not more than two lessons can be missed for a member to qualify for the examination, so it is important that all members be present at the meeting next Monday evening. The new members are Mrs. S. F. Ten Eyck, Hurley, N. Y.; Mrs. R. Fraleigh, Ulster Park; Mrs. A. Heuben, New York City; the Misses Retta Smith, Etta Wiley; Pauline Stock, Elmer Weber; May Langham, Mildred Forst; Agnes Clare, Etta M. Ormerod, Lena E. Dick, Kingston.

Two Cases in Court.

Wednesday was a light day in police circles and only two arrests were made. William Smith of New Paltz came to town and got drunk that day and was picked up by Officer Connelly. This morning he was given an hour to get out of town by Judge Schrick.

Silva Nenni was arrested by Officer O'Neil, charged with driving a car without a chauffeur's license. His case was adjourned until Friday.

Atkins in Newburgh.

D. G. Atkins, is in Newburgh, representing laborers who were injured on the West Point highway. The case comes up before the State Industrial Commission at the court house.

WHY HE WALKED FLOOR ALL NIGHT

Captain James DeWitt's Witty Reply to Dr. Sam Stern's Query—Who Colored Boys Were Who Entrained—Admiral Mann Presented Fruit.

"I heard you walked the floor all night in your sleep," remarked Dr. Sam Stern of Local Board No. 1 this morning to Captain James DeWitt, as he lined up the six colored men in the board's office for roll call just prior to the big parade.

"Yep, I was in a hurry to get there," replied Captain DeWitt with a grin and his companions all united with him in a smile. DeWitt is known as the cheerful chauffeur employed by Dr. E. H. Loughran of the Exemption Board and he was selected as captain of the squad who entrained for Camp Dix.

This showed the cheerful spirit in which the six young colored men of Kingston left the city this morning on their way to do their bit for Uncle Sam.

Captain DeWitt's home town is Lomontville, but he has been employed by Dr. Loughran as chauffeur for some time, and is a careful and experienced driver.

Raymond Nelson is from Binnewater and is a farmer. George Hannibal is also from Lomontville, and has been employed as stock clerk in the Stuyvesant Garage.

Clarence S. G. Clemmons of No. 78 Gage street, city, has been working as brass caster helper at Bristol, Conn. He was a student at old Kingston Academy and while there was a noted athlete holding the record for the quarter mile.

Ira Hasbrouck of 44 South Pine street, is a carpenter and was employed on one of the local boat-yards.

James B. Fitzgerald of No. 47 Van Buren street, when questioned said he worked at odd jobs about town. "I am a kind of a Jack of all trades," he said with a smile.

Watermelon for the Boys.

Alderman Ralph Mann and his father, Barney Mann, evidently bore in mind the old joke regarding a negro's fondness for watermelon for they saw to it that the boys were supplied with one to eat on the way to camp. They also donated fruit and peanuts.

The boys are due at Camp Dix at 6 o'clock this afternoon, and will enjoy luncheon at Weehawken.

GERMAN KULTUR.

As Brought Into Captured French Towns.

Baroness Huard, an American girl who married a Frenchman, says in an article in the August American Magazine:

"Compared with what happened elsewhere, the story of our little village is actually a bright one! The occupation was not so bad as I had pointed that the Germans did not have time for their usual systematic and atrocious work of destruction. However, the nine days they spent there were black enough.

"The officers and the soldiers made victims of every woman in the village—from little girls of only ten years to old women who were so afflicted physically that any man should have pitied them, even if he did not feel repulsion toward them. This I say out of my own knowledge, for it happened in my village and these women and little girls were personally known to me. Mine was only one of hundreds of towns to which the Germans came; and, as I said before, its story is one of the least horrible. But bring it home to yourself, if you want to know the kind of enemies we are fighting. How would you like them to come to your town?"

Emerson on War.

War educates the senses, calls into action the will, perfects the physical constitution, brings men into such swift and close collision in critical moments that man measures man.—Emerson.

UNINJURED IN TROOP TRAIN WRECK

Artilleryman, From Walker Valley Describes Smash-up in Which Two Troopers Were Killed and Many Hurt.

Mrs. Cox, of Walker Valley, chairman and founder of the Red Cross Auxiliary of 77 members in that place, has received the following letter from her son, James:—

"With the Colors,"
Safe and Sound
Tuesday, June 19, 1918.

My Dear Mother:—

A very few lines to let you know I am all O. K. without a scratch as no doubt by now the New York papers are full of our mishap yesterday. As we broke up camp and was on a train bound for Anniston, Alabama, but only got 20 miles from camp when our train was wrecked and our car being the third from the engine was wrecked as only the first three cars were the only ones wrecked. But when the engineer put on the brakes when he saw the broken tracks the train jumped in the air also. James Wm. Cox jumped out a window landing in a pile of hay; what could be softer. Well it was the toughest sight I ever witnessed: out in the woods, no houses around. We dug and dug the boys out from under the cars. All the engineer received was a broken leg. We dug for an hour for the boys and they all came from my battery, E. 40. So far two have died and two more will die, with the other 36 wounded, with broken legs, broken arms, some blinded and one fellow with the nose iron off his face.

There were 3 batteries in the train, E, F and D, but only E Battery were wounded. Two of the boys lost their minds and we worked on them for hours. No doubt the papers are full of lies about it, but only forty men were injured, with so far two deaths. It sure was a terrible sight. Men under that engine and men under the cars. But we all worked cool headed and it was that work of our great major and Captain Walker, our E Battery captain, who both were also wounded, but who worked with us men, and through our work and their skillfulness saved many more lives. Believe me mother, we have the hatred in our heart for a Dutchman now if we ever did and we won't rest in peace until every damn one of them is dead, the dirty curs. But do not worry about little Jimmie. He is a wide awake kid who gets out without a scratch. We will be in old New York in about September. So don't worry, you are soon to see your old again. Will try and send you the papers with the correct truth from Waco if I possible can get a hold of one as they are hard to get as every body has got most of them all. Will write soon again as we may pull out again today. So don't worry over me. Regards to all the folks and all of Sonny's love to you. Goodbye for today.

Your ever loving son,
Jimmie Cox.
Let the N. Y. and Brooklyn folks know that I am O. K. Love,
SONNY.

Business Tact.

In an editorial note, the editor of The American Magazine says in the August issue: "Some people fail utterly when it comes to selling themselves to others. They arouse antagonism. They are constantly in hot water. They don't make friends. Their associates dislike them and do all they can to block them. Yet selling yourself to other people is the most important sales you can make. The ordinary man is no king. He can't order folks to bend their knee. He can't break their necks if they refuse to do it. He must win them to him, get them with him, gain their loyalty by careful handling. Many a man in business needs above everything else some good hard practice in the gentle art of coming off his perch."

UNDERNEATH THE CITY HALL DOME

Inquiry at the board of health office this morning brought forth the fact that the glanders situation in Kingston remained unchanged. The watering fountains about the city have been turned off and will not be turned on again until orders are received from the board of health.

Wednesday was another quiet day in the measles situation, as no new cases were reported to the health board.

Saturday is the last day when water rents may be paid without the usual penalty attached.

On the Fourth of July the Rotary Club presented the city with a huge service flag. Since that time many have wondered what has become of the flag as it has not been displayed at the city hall. It now develops that Janitor Dawe has been waiting to receive some necessary clasps to use to hang the flag and that the committee of the city fathers had not supplied him as yet. The clasps have now been received and the flag will shortly be displayed.

Two Cases in Court.

Wednesday was a light day in police circles and only two arrests were made. William Smith of New Paltz came to town and got drunk that day and was picked up by Officer Connelly. This morning he was given an hour to get out of town by Judge Strick.

Silva Nenni was arrested by Officer O'Neil, charged with driving a car without a chauffeur's license. His case was adjourned until Friday.

Atkins in Newburgh.

D. G. Atkins, is in Newburgh, representing laborers who were injured on the West Point highway. The case comes up before the State Industrial Commission at the court house.

WHY HE WALKED FLOOR ALL NIGHT

Captain James DeWitt's Witty Reply to Dr. Sam Stern's Query—Who Colored Boys Were Who Entrained—Adelman Mann Presented Fruit.

"I heard you walked the floor all night in your sleep," remarked Dr. Sam Stern of Local Board No. 1 this morning to Captain James DeWitt, as he lined up the six colored men in the board's office for roll call just prior to the big parade.

"Yep, I was in a hurry to get there," replied Captain DeWitt with a grin and his companions all united with him in a smile. DeWitt is known as the cheerful chauffeur employed by Dr. E. H. Loughran of the Exemption Board and he was selected as captain of the squad who entrained for Camp Dix.

This showed the cheerful spirit in which the six young colored men of Kingston left the city this morning on their way to do their bit for Uncle Sam.

Captain DeWitt's home town is Lomontville, but he has been employed by Dr. Loughran as chauffeur for some time, and is a careful and experienced driver.

Raymond Nelson is from Binnewater and is a farmer.

George Hannibal is also from Lomontville, and has been employed as stock clerk in the Stuyvesant Garage.

Clarence S. G. Clemmons of No. 78 Gage street, city, has been working as brass caster helper at Bristol, Conn. He was a student at old Kingston Academy and while there was a noted athlete holding the record for the quarter mile.

Ira Hasbrouck of 44 South Pine street, is a carpenter and was employed on one of the local boat-yards.

James B. Fitzgerald of No. 47 Van Buren street, when questioned said he worked at odd jobs about town. "I am a kind of a Jack of all trades," he said with a smile.

Watermelon for the Boys.

Alderman Ralph Mann and his father, Barney Mann, evidently bore in mind the old joke regarding a negro's fondness for watermelon for they saw to it that the boys were supplied with one to eat on the way to camp. They also donated fruit and peanuts.

The boys are due at Camp Dix at 6 o'clock this afternoon, and will enjoy luncheon at Weehawken.

GERMAN KULTUR.

As Brought Into Captured French Towns.

Baroness Huard, an American girl, who married a Frenchman, says in an article in the August American Magazine:

"Compared with what happened elsewhere, the story of our little village is actually a bright one! The evacuation was so hurried at that point that the Germans did not have time for their usual systematic and atrocious work of destruction. However, the nine days they spent there were black enough.

"The officers and the soldiers made victims of every woman in the village—from the girls of only ten years to old women who were so afflicted physically that any man should have pitied them, even if he did not feel repulsion toward them. This I say out of my own knowledge, for it happened in my village and these women and little girls were personally known to me. Mine was only one of hundreds of towns to which the Germans came; and, as I said before, its story is one of the least horrible. But bring it home to yourself, if you want to know the kind of enemies we are fighting. How would you like them to come to your town?"

Emerson on War.

War educates the senses, calls into action the will, perfects the physical constitution, brings men into such swift and close collision in critical moments that man measures man.—Emerson.

UNINJURED IN TROOP TRAIN WRECK

Artilleryman From Walker Valley Describes Smash-up in Which Two Troopers Were Killed and Many Hurt.

Mrs. Cox, of Walker Valley, chairman and founder of the Red Cross Auxiliary of 77 members in that place, has received the following letter from her son, James:—

"With the Colors,"

Safe and Sound

Tuesday, June 19, 1918.

My Dear Mother:

A very few lines to let you know I am all O. K. without a scratch as no doubt by now the New York papers are full of our mishap yesterday. As we broke up camp and was on a train bound for Anniston, Alabama, but only got 20 miles from camp when our train was wrecked and our car being the third from the engine was wrecked as only the first three cars were the only ones wrecked. But when the engineer put on the brakes when he saw the broken tracks the train jumped in the air also, James Wm. Cox jumped out a window landing in a pile of hay; what could be softer. Well it was the toughest sight I ever witnessed; out in the woods, no houses around. We dug and dug the boys out from under the cars. All the engineer received was a broken leg. We dug for an hour for the boys and they all came from my battery, E. 40. So far two have died and two more will die, with the other 36 wounded, with broken legs, broken arms, some blinded and one fellow with the nose torn off his face.

There were 3 batteries in the train, E. F. and D. but only E Battery were wounded. Two of the boys lost their mind and we worked on them for hours. No doubt the papers are full of lies about it, but only forty men were injured, with so far two deaths. It sure was a terrible sight. Men under that engine and men under the cars. But we all worked cool headed and it was that work of our great major and Captain Walker, our E Battery captain, who held us together also wounded, but who worked with us men, and through our work and their skillfulness saved many more lives. Believe me mother, we have the hatred in our heart for a Dutchman now if we ever did and we won't rest in peace until every damn one of them is dead, the dirty curs. But do not worry about little Jimmie. He is a wide awake kid who gets out without a scratch. We will be in old New York in about September. So don't worry, you are soon to see your aid again. Will try and send you the papers with the correct truth from Waco if I possible can get a hold of one as they are hard to get as every body has got most of them all. Will write soon again as we may pull out again today. So don't worry over me. Regards to all the folks and all of Sonny's love to you. Goodbye for today.

Your ever loving son,

JAMES.

Let the N. Y. and Brooklyn folks know that I am O. K. Love,

SONNY.

Business Tact.

In an editorial note, the editor of The American Magazine says in the August issue: "Some people fail utterly when it comes to selling themselves to others. They are antagonistic. They are constantly in hot water. They don't make friends. Their associates dislike them and do all they can to block them. Yet selling yourself to other people is the most important sale you can make. The ordinary man is no king. He can't order folks to bend the knee. He can't break their necks if they refuse to do it. He must win them to him, get them with him, gain their loyalty by careful handling. Many a man in business needs above everything else some good hard practice in the gentle art of coming off his perch."

UNDERNEATH THE CITY HALL DOME

Inquiry at the board of health office this morning brought forth the fact that the glanders situation in Kingston remained unchanged. The watering fountains about the city have been turned off and will not be turned on again until orders are received from the board of health.

Wednesday was another quiet day in the measles situation, as no new cases were reported to the health board.

Saturday is the last day when water rents may be paid without the usual penalty attached.

On the Fourth of July the Rotary Club presented the city with a huge service flag. Since that time many have wondered what has become of the flag as it has not been displayed at the city hall. It now develops that Janitor Dawe had been waiting to receive some necessary clasps to use to hang the flag and that the committee of the city fathers had not supplied him as yet. The clasps have now been received and the flag will shortly be displayed.

ALLIED OFFENSIVE ON AISNE-MARNE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, July 18.—French and American troops have begun an offensive against the Germans over a front of about thirty-five miles between the Aisne and Marne rivers, the war office announced today.

The territory covered by the new allied drive extends from Fontenoy (just west of Soissons) on the northern bank of the Aisne) to the

The allied offensive lies to the northwest of the scene of the present German drive.

The Germans began their offensive with a feint in the sector of Vaux, just south of Belleau wood, but immediately switched their main attacks to the Marne river, to the eastern flank of the Aisne Marne salient and into the Champagne district—the region between Rheims and the Argonne forest.

$100 STAMP TO BE ISSUED SOON

Takes Place of Certificate and is More Convenient for it Saves Sticking on the Small Stamps and is Available in Exchange for That Amount of Stamps.

Yesterday Director General Brinnier and Col. DeWitt visited Albany and conferred with Commander W. J. Tully on the war savings situation. The conference was held at the Ten Eyck Hotel and was attended by chairmen from Buffalo, Rochester, Binghamton, Elmira, Utica, Albany and other large cities. Senator Tully and Director Brinnier of Washington addressed the meeting and received reports from each city. When General Brinnier gave his account of the U. S. State drive it made a noticeable impression as the amount of cash already paid in from the pledges was above the average. Postmaster DeWitt assured the chairman present that the post office employees and life agents throughout the state would assist in delivering the pledge cards and making collections wherever possible. Plans were discussed for further work on the W. S. S. The $100 war savings certificate will be issued by the government September 1. This is similar to a Liberty bond, though a notice and does away with the delay in pasting $5 stamps on a certificate. This will increase the sales of W. S. S. largely, it is expected.

MOVIE STARS AT KINGSTON POINT

Replica of Clermont in Lagoon Used in Making a Historical Film—It Was an Interesting Morning at Kingston's Summer Resort.

Tuesday morning the tug Rob of the Cornell Line berthed at Rhinecliff and took aboard a troupe of sixteen movie actors, both men and women, and brought them over to Kingston Point, where the troupe acted before the movie camera in the making of a historical film, showing the development of navigation from the days of the Indian canoe to the present Hendrick Hudson of the Hudson River Day Line.

The movie stars were costumed in the clothing of the period of the famous old Clermont, Robert Fulton's steamboat, and the first steamboat to sail up the historic Hudson.

As told in The Freeman at the time an effort was to be made to raise the Clermont, which for the past three years has been in the lagoon at Kingston Point, and float her out into the Hudson. After consideration it was decided best not to move her.

Tuesday in order to get the effect of the Clermont sailing up the river the movie camera was placed on a handcar and it was run up and down the railroad tracks opposite the Clermont. When the film is released the picture, of course will be reversed, and the spectator will receive the impression that the Clermont is really sailing. In order to make the picture more realistic some material was placed in the boiler and set on fire which emitted smoke and what looked like steam from the funnel on the boat.

A goodly part of the morning was taken up in securing the views desired while those taking part moved about the deck of the Clermont.

Views were also taken of the Hendrick Hudson when it berthed at Kingston Point and when she pulled out the movie troupe were on board.

Canning Kitchen Busy.

These days the Canning Kitchen at the high school is a very busy place. It means when one speaks of the number of cans done in a day, all of the necessary preparatory work connected with the canning, and every body knows that the getting ready is a big and a drudgery item. On Tuesday of this week, 62 quart cans of beans were done up and yesterday 40 more cans of beans were made ready for winter consumption. Today both beans and corn are being canned, this being a period when there are more vegetables than fruit ready for canning.

The Franco-American forces advanced two miles in some places, taking the men who leave Marne salient and into the Champagne district—the region between Rheims and the Argonne forest.

STATE FOOD COMMISSION, U. S. FOOD ADMINISTRATION, A PATRIOTIC PARTNERSHIP

This is the third instalment of a review of the labor of your State Food Commission as a cooperating body of and with the United States Food Administration. It will help to a better and clearer understanding of our readers will keep this in mind, viz., that the motive here is not one of praise of any man or men, but of public information. These facts are set forth that you may conceive a just pride in the conspicuous and effective work of your State as the intimate partner of your national government in the offensive and defensive activities of food administration. They are put forward also in the hope that all of us may be encouraged to a stricter observance of the regulations which, however exacting, are essential to success.

Enforcing the Regulations of the Food Administration.

Men may make laws, but if there has been no provision for their enforcement these laws would soon be shown to be what Kaiser Bill said of the Belgian treaty—hence in Food Administration work we have a Division of Enforcement. The parent body is in Washington. The Division of Enforcement is essentially federal and a definite part of the United States Food Administration. In this State through the effectual unification of Federal and State activities which has resulted in a patriotic partnership of effort, the counsel to the State Food Commission is intimately associated with the supervision of this division and frequently acts as prosecuting attorney. He also prosecutes all violations of the State Food Act. This Division is in charge of Alan Fox and Charles P. Robinson, the former also being head of the license division.

asking them to watch out for him.
It was thought that Daniel would taken each in the morning. After after it was left by the milkman and before the family had gotten up for the day.

Finally Daniel was caught and was sent to Randall's Island by Recorder Lang. Since then the thefts of milk stopped.

HOOVER REPORTS TO PRESIDENT

In Letter to President Gives Figures Showing Great Results Attained by Department—American Women
Given Major Credit.

Washington, July 18.—America
has led the world this year with 3, 911,000,000 pounds of meats and fats
and 740,000,000 bushels of cereals, according to a summary of the work
of the food administration, submitted
in a report to the president by Food Administrator Hoover and made public today.
These figures represent an increase of 841,000,000 pounds of meats, and 50,000,000 bushels of cereals over the preceding year.
"No one can deny," wrote Hoover,
"the dominant part of the American woman in attaining these figures, and the American people should feel with a great deal of satisfaction, the remarkable results they have attained
this year in feeding our Allied armies,
our army and the civilian populations
of the nations fighting Germany."
The report shows that despite an unusually small grain crop last year
—seven to nine per cent below normal—this country increased its wheat exports by 80,000,000 bushels, and its meats and fats by 811,000,000 pounds.
The total value of these exports purchased through, or in collaboration with, the food administration, amounted to $1,100,000,000 and were shipped to the Allies, military and naval establishments, our own war making branches, the civilian population, the Red Cross and the United States.

In the last half of the year, Hoover wrote the president, our exports of meats to the Allies were 2,225,000, 000 pounds as against 1,265,000,000 pounds for the same period of the preceding year.
"This compares," he wrote, "with an average of 801,000,000 pounds of total exports for the same half years
in the three year pre-war period."
The total shipments to Allied countries from our last harvest of wheat will be a total of 154,000,000 bushels of prime breadstuffs. In addition to this we have shipped some 10,000,000 bushels to neutrals, dependent upon us.
The exports to Allied destinations
during the fiscal year 1917-18 were,
wheat 135,100,000 bushels and rye
2,300,000 bushels, a total of 137, 400,000 bushels. In addition some 10,000,000 bushels of 1917 wheat
are now in port for allied destinations or enroute thereto.
"The allied food controllers," he reports further, "sent an urgent request for further shipment of 75, 000,000 bushels of wheat from the 1917 crop. This was exceeded by approximately 20,000,000 bushels
all of which represented actual saving on the part of the American people who deserve especial credit
in view of the small wheat crop."
The wheat figures are 340,800,000
bushels for 1917-18 as against 259, 000,000 bushels for 1916-17 and the import figures are 2,011,100,000
pounds for 1917-18 as against 2, 166,500,000 pounds for the preceding year.

"I am sure that the millions of our people," ends Hoover's letter,
"agricultural as well as urban, who have contributed to these results
should feel a very definite satisfaction that in the year of universal food shortages in the northern hemisphere all of these people joined together against Germany have come through in sight of coming harvest,
not only with health and strength maintained but with only temporary periods of hardship. The European allies have been compelled to sacrifice more than our own people but we have not failed to load every steamer since the delays of the storm months last winter. Our contributions to this end could not have been accomplished without efforts and sacrifice and it is a matter for further satisfaction that it has been accomplished voluntarily and involuntarily. It is hard to distinguish between various sections of our people
—the homes, the public eating places,
the food trades, urban or agricultural populations—in a signing credit for these results, but no one will deny the dominant part of American women."

Valuable to Cotton Growers.
A machine has been invented for chopping out young cotton plants, at the same time the crop is being cultivated.

SILLS IS NOW IN MEDICAL DEPT

His Discomforts, Thus Far in France
Comprise German Airplane Bomb-
and a Ride in a Cattle Car.

The following letter has been received by Mrs. Diehl of Port Ewen from her nephew, Joe Silks, who is somewhere in France:
Somewhere in France, Saturday,
June 15, M. D. U. S. A.
Dear Aunt and Family:
You probably think I have forgotten you altogether but I have not and I have thought of you very often. I thought I would write you a letter from France as I know you will be glad to hear from me.
I wrote to mother about a week ago and probably she has told you about it. Well, we had a fine trip across and were not annoyed by the subs at all, for which we are thankful, as we did not care for a bath
while we were out so far from land.
We landed O. K. and then walked to our camp a few miles away, but we only remained there a short time,
so we moved on to another camp, but we did not like very much to travel in the manner which we traveled, as it was cattle cars that we made the trip in.

It took us about thirty-six hours
to get there and believe me we were glad to get out of the cars and into our new camp. But the same night
we arrived there we were somewhat annoyed by the German aeroplanes
dropping bombs around the camp,
although they did no damage whatever.

We did not linger there very long,
but we moved about a day later to where we are now situated.
Probably mother has told you that I am now with the medical department and if you write to me you must use this address: Private Joe Sills, Med. Dept., 107th Inf., U. S. A., Am. Ex. Forces.

Yes, I have been in the medical department before we left Camp
Wadsworth and I like it much better than where I was in Co. B, and have a chance to learn something in the line of first aid work and perhaps more.

Mother wrote me while I was in Camp Stuart that Lester was in some camp which I cannot remember now,
and that Everett was on one of the boats in New York, and I hope they are both contented.

I am glad they didn't take the
both of them into the army so you can see one of them anyway. I hope Uncle Chris's arm is better and that he can resume his duties without being bothered by his arm.

I suppose Anna Mae is working every day now and no doubt she must be making very fair pay now,
as I heard help is in great demand,
especially in the ammunition factories.

Say, I would give almost anything to have a little ride in the Ford. How about it, auntie?

Well, there isn't much I can say that will be of interest to you, so I will close for this time.

Hoping this will reach you O. K.
and find you in the best of health, as I leave me. I am as ever, your loving nephew,
JOE SILLS.

To Dry Food Products.
The equipment used in preparing food materials for drying may be as simple or as elaborate as the needs of the case may require. With two or three narrow, stiff-bladed kitchen knives, a larger, more flexible knife, and an ordinary washbottle, the housewife is equipped for preparing and blanching such quantities of the fruits and vegetables as will meet the needs of the ordinary household. While somewhat tedious, hand paring and slicing of apples, pears, peaches, apricots, onions, carrots, potatoes, beets, and cabbage may be done without special equipment.
If the quantities of material to be handled will justify the expenditure, the purchase of a few special utensils will greatly reduce the labor involved. An apple parer of the type which pares and cores or pares, cores and slices can be purchased for approximately $1.75. A krant cutter, which consists of a long board having one or more steel blades fastened at the edges of slots cut in the board may be purchased or made by a blacksmith and will be useful not only in slicing cabbage for drying or for making sauer kraut, but also for slicing any of the root vegetables or such fruits as apples. A rotary slicer, consisting of a curved blade fastened to a disk rotating at right angles to a metal trough in which the vegetables to be sliced are placed, is a great convenience, as the blade may be adjusted to cut slices of any desired thickness, and the instrument may be used for slicing meats, cheese, or bread as well as for cutting vegetables. Such slicers are made in various sizes costing $2 to $10.

HE ESCAPED FROM RANDALL'S ISLAND

Daniel Schoonmaker, 15 Years Old, and a Convicted Milk Thief, Got Away July, But is Back Again at Institution.
The evening of July 9, police headquarters received word from the authorities of Randall's Island that Daniel Schoonmaker, 15 years, had made an escape from the island, and asking them to watch out for him.
It was thought that Daniel would return to Kingston, and a sharp watch was kept about town by the members of the department without success. This morning Chief of Police Wood received word from Randall's Island that Daniel had been captured. No particulars were given.
Daniel was arrested on July 19 of last year by Sergeant Hanley. Complaints had been made to the police of milk being stolen from the porch about town and sometimes as much as a dozen quarts of milk were taken early in the morning shortly after it was left by the milkman and before the family had gotten up for the day.
Finally Daniel was caught and was sent to Randall's Island by Recorder Lang. Since then the thefts of milk stopped.

HOOVER REPORTS TO PRESIDENT

In Letter To President Gives Figures Showing Great Results Attained by Department—American Women Given Major Credit.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, July 18.—America has fed the world this year with 3,011,000,000 pounds of meats and fats and 340,800,000 bushels of cereals, according to a summary of the work of the food administration, submitted in a report to the president by Food Administrator Hoover and made public today.
These figures represent an increase of 844,600,000 pounds of meats, and 80,900,000 bushels of cereals over the preceding year.
"No one can deny," wrote Hoover, "the dominant part of the American woman in attaining these figures, and the American people should feel with a great deal of satisfaction, the remarkable results they have attained this year in feeding our Allies armies, our army and the civilian populations of the nations fighting Germany."
The report shows that despite an unusually small grain crop last year—seven to nine per cent below normal—this country increased its wheat exports by 80,900,000 bushels, and its meats and fats by 844,600,000 pounds.
The total value of these exports purchased through, or in collaboration with, the food administration, amounted to $1,400,000,000 and were shipped to the Allies, military and naval establishments, our own war making branches, the civilian populations, the Belgian relief and the Red Cross.
In the last half of the year, Hoover wrote the president, our exports of meats to the Allies were 2,133,600,000 pounds as against 1,266,500,000 pounds for the same period of the preceding year.
"This compares," he wrote, "with an average of 801,000,000 pounds of total exports for the same half years in the three year pre-war period."
The total shipments to Allied countries from our last harvest of wheat will be a total of 154,900,000 bushels of prime breadstuffs. In addition to this we have shipped some 10,000,000 bushels to neutrals, dependent upon us.
The exports to Allied destinations during the fiscal year 1916-17 were wheat 135,100,000 bushels and rye 2,300,000 bushels, a total of 137,400,000 bushels. In addition some 10,000,000 bushels of 1917 wheat are now in port for allied destinations or enroute thereto.
"The allied food controllers," he reports further, "sent an urgent request for further shipment of 75,000,000 bushels of wheat from the 1917 crop. This was exceeded by approximately 30,000,000 bushels all of which represented actual saving on the part of the American people who deserve especial credit in view of the small wheat crop."
The wheat figures are 340,800,000 bushels for 1917-18 as against 259,900,000 bushels for 1916-17 and the meat figures are 3,011,000,000 pounds for 1917-18 as against 2,166,500,000 pounds for the preceding year.
"I am sure that the millions of our people," ends Hoover's letter, "agricultural as well as urban, who have contributed to these results should feel a very definite satisfaction that in the year of universal food shortages in the northern hemisphere all of these people joined together against Germany have come through into sight of coming harvest not only with health and strength maintained but with only temporary periods of hardship. The European allies have been compelled to sacrifice more than our own people but we have not failed to load every steamer since the delays of the storm months last winter. Our contributions to this end could not have been accomplished without efforts and sacrifice and it is a matter for further satisfaction that it has been accomplished voluntarily and involuntarily. It is hard to distinguish between various sections of our people—the homes, the public eating places, the food trades, urban or agricultural populations—in assigning credit for these results, but no one will deny the dominant part of American women."

SILLS IS NOW IN MEDICAL DEPT

His Discomforts Thus Far in France Comprise German Airplane Bombs and a Ride in a Cattle Car.

The following letter has been received by Mrs. Diehl of Port Ewen from her nephew, Joe Sils, who is somewhere in France.
Somewhere in France, Saturday, June 15, M. D. U. S. A.
Dear Aunt and Family:
You probably think I have forgotten you altogether but I have not and I have thought of you very often, so I thought I would write you a letter from France as I know you will be glad to hear from me.
I wrote to mother about a week ago and probably she has told you about it. Well, we had a fine trip across and were not annoyed by the subs at all, for which we are thankful, as we did not care for a bath while we were out so far from land. We landed O. K. and then walked to our camp a few miles away, but we only remained there a short time, so we moved on to another camp, but we did not like very much to travel in the manner which we traveled, as it was cattle cars that we made the trip in.
It took us about thirty-six hours to get there and believe me we were glad to get out of the cars and into our new camp. But the same night we arrived there we were somewhat annoyed by the German aeroplanes dropping bombs around the camp, although they did no damage whatever.
We did not linger there very long, but we moved about a day later to where we are now situated.
Probably mother has told you that I am now with the medical department and if you wish to write to me you should use this address: Private Joe Sils, Med. Dept., 107th Inf., U. S. A., Am. Ex. Forces.
Yes, I have been in the medical department before we left Camp Wadsworth and I like it much better than where I was in Co. B, and have a chance to learn something in the line of first aid work and perhaps more.
Mother wrote me while I was in Camp Stuart that Lester was in some camp which I cannot remember now, and that Everett was on one of the boats in New York, and I hope they are both contented.
I am glad they didn't take the both of them into the army so you can see one of them anyway. I hope Uncle Chris's arm is better and that he can resume his duties without being bothered by his arm.
I suppose Anna Mae is working every day now and no doubt she must be making very fair pay now, as I heard help is in great demand, especially in the ammunition factories.
Say, I would give almost anything to have a little ride in the Ford. How about it, auntie?
Well, there isn't much I can say that will be of interest to you, so I will close for this time.
Hoping this will reach you O. K. and find you in the best of health, as I leave me, I am as ever, your loving nephew,
JOE SILLS.
